Test of Taft-Hartley Act

The first major test of the Taft-Hartley act's injunction power may be made in connection with the coal mine and packing house strikes.

The law gives the chief executive certain powers in case national health or safety is in danger. He can appoint a board of inquiry to inquire into the issues. The board's report must be made to the President, who is required to file a copy with the federal mediation and conciliation service. He then may direct the attorney general to petition any district court of the United States with proper jurisdiction to enjoin the strike if the court finds that national health or safety might be jeopardized. The court's decision is subject to review by the appropriate circuit court of appeals and the Supreme court.

After the injunction has been issued, the chief executive must reconvene the board of inquiry. At the end of 60 days it must make a new report. Within the next 15 days the National Labor Relations board must take a secret ballot of employees involved. On the question of whether or not they are to accept the employer's last offer. Five days after the election the NLRB must certify the results to the attorney general, who then must move to discharge the injunction when the results of the ballot have been certified or upon settlement of the dispute. The court must grant the motion.

There is no guarantee that anything will be settled—only an 80-day period of federal intervention and the risk of a federal injunction. At the end of a period, if no settlement is reached, the strike could take place beyond reach of the Taft-Hartley act. All who are wondering why John L. Lewis has chosen to call out his union members in mid-March when his contract doesn't expire until the end of June will note that this strategy would leave him free to call a strike at that time beyond reach of the law if the Taft-Hartley act happens to be invoked against him within the next three weeks.

No Time For Idealism

A change of Allied policy in western Europe is taking the emphasis off changing the corporate setup in heavy industry, according to Gen. Lucius Clay. Only a few companies having monopolistic control of consumer goods will be affected in the future, and dissolution of agreements among independent concerns is being abandoned.

These changes indicate that occupation authorities are adopting a more realistic approach to problems in the Allied zone. The breakup of existing industrial relationships, while contemplated as essential for a demilitarized Germany, at present would require costly adjustments and hamper production.

Recovery of western Europe depends in large degree on Germany's capital goods production. That recovery can't be long delayed if the western countries are to resist the political disturbances accompanying economic unrest. By their action, occupation authorities indicate that introducing idealism into the harsh realities of western Europe would be a futile gesture.

Ohio Isn't The Only One

Ohio's urban under-representation in the state legislature isn't unique; many states suffer from the same malady. The United States conference of mayors has assembled examples.

Wayne county, Michigan, with 40 percent of the state's population, has 27 percent of state assembly representatives. Eight urban counties in New Jersey, with 80 percent of the population, have eight state senators, contrasted with 13 senators from 13 counties but with one-fifth of the population. Hartford, Conn., population 166,000, has two state representatives; so does Colebrook, Conn., population 547. In Ohio, seven counties have half the population, yet they elect less than 37 percent of the state senators.

All states so afflicted are up against the same problem: The correction must be sought at the hands of a rural-dominated legislature. Those who benefit most by the present disparities are the ones who must be appealed to. The alternative is the referendum, an expensive, tedious process but the only one likely to bring success.

Shelved Again

The house agricultural committee's defeat of proposed legislation to cancel federal taxes on oleomargarine again postpones eventual repeal of this high-handed legislation.

This year the drive made more progress than ever before. Because of the high price of butter, the oleo taxes had more outspoken opponents. Dairy state congressmen were harder pressed to defend their position. In many dairy states, soybean production is rising and the support of oleo taxes isn't as strong as it was. One Wisconsin dairy cooperative even admitted that oleo taxes were unjust and called for their repeal.

Taxes and other unfair restriction on the sale of oleo eventually will go by the boards. The dairy industry has no more justification in being protected by such legislation than cotton growers would have in forcing through a tax on rayon.

Bumper Crop of Babies

The Census bureau reports that the 3,908,000 births in 1947 set a record for the second successive year, which might lead some to think new records will be chalked up annually from now on. Such isn't likely to be the case, however, because births were beginning to decline toward the end of last year. The nation's families aren't having more children per unit; it's just that the marriage boom of recent years has reduced the numbers of spinsters and bachelors to record lows.

According to students of population trends, the marriage graph, which moves in an 18-year cycle, has just passed its peak. The birth trend is likely to follow the marriage trend downward, how far depending on a number of factors, notably economic conditions and housing. But no statistic how sharply the birth rate declines in the next year or two, the record baby crops of recent years assure baby boomers in the 1950's.

The Stars Say

BY GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Thursday, March 18

The forecast is for a day of surprise and unlooked for culminations which may cause all prearranged plans and objectives to be cast into the discard. A sudden and challenging occurrence or visitation may prove devastating and move the status quo to very shaky foundations. All contracts, ambitions, and planned action are subject to this radical event, in which all progress seems blocked. Nevertheless the mind is keyed to keen insight and may work out ways and means for really breath-taking and astute denouements.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of critical and unpredictable situations, in which all ideals, plans, objectives and ambitions may suddenly be upset with dramatic abruptness, involving all associations, contacts and relations under devastating and radical uprooting. All resources, affiliations, prospects and ideals should be rigidly held together in a sort of suspended animation, until the crash blows over, which it will, as suddenly as it descended. This will happen because the mentality seems well equipped to shrewdly appraise all angles and come to the rescue with the proper and essential procedure for the mending of all fences. Pause for reflection, then move with audacity.

A child born this day has efficiency and mentality to cope with extraordinary calamity and crises in a spectacular life.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

BY WALTER KIERNAN

A group of tailors have picked General Eisenhower as the best-dressed man in civilian life but he should be... he's got one of the newest suits.

Anyway these boys just haven't seen Admiral Bill Halsey in civvies... they tell me his sports jackets would have brought surrender as quickly as the atom bomb.

When Admiral Bill visited Bethlehem steel plant they gave him a pair of dark glasses so he could look at a blast furnace... then the furnace men put on their dark glasses so they could look at him.

All I know is that I was with him and on my next visit to my eye doctor he said "I can see that you've been staring into the sun."

But it's nice to know that he has a good job and a good tailor... and he must have a good adviser or he'd be out there throwing his best scoop hat into the ring.

He's dressing up while most of the candidates are getting a dressing down.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Causes of Mental Fatigue

By HERMAN N. RUDESEN, M.D.

All work and no play has never seemed to be a good plan for living. And in these high-tension modern days, when nearly everybody works under stress of one kind or another it is particularly bad.

It has often been said that hard work can harm nobody; that it is never responsible for physical or mental breakdowns. And yet Dr. Charles R. Rayburn of the University of Oklahoma Medical School thinks that heavy, prolonged responsibility, plus long hours of hard work, with little rest or recreation, may eventually lead to a condition which he calls Mental Fatigue Syndrome. A syndrome is a group of symptoms.

Servicemen in Combat

The symptoms of this condition are like those which developed in servicemen during combat or in airmen after prolonged airplane flights.

In this so-called mental fatigue syndrome there are changes in the personality. The condition often develops in persons who have a strong, nervous make-up and who, consequently, may have been given extra responsibilities. The patients complain of a variety of physical disturbances, such as vague pains in various parts of the body, headache, and fatigue. But despite their complaints they resent sympathy and attention. They often try to be alone and may even decline any medical aid, but realizing that something is wrong they try to account for it by saying they are nervous.

As a rule, the symptoms are worse in the morning, while the patient feels better in the early afternoon. These patients are not worried about themselves, but they are restless, irritable, and unable to concentrate.

Frequently, they are depressed. Most of them will recover completely when their responsibilities are decreased and they are freed, in so far as possible, from fear, anxiety or emotional strain.

In all walks of life, recreational habits are important. Everyone should see to it that he gets enough time for rest and relaxation, and that relaxation is of the proper type. This in itself will do much to ward off the so-called mental fatigue state. In some cases, if the condition develops, a complete change of occupation may be necessary.

The mental fatigue state must not be confused with another condition, called neurasthenia, which develops in people suffering from emotional disturbances. These persons do not have a strong, nervous make-up and easily break down even under the problems of ordinary life.

The person with mental fatigue will recover with proper treatment. The one with neurasthenia often recovers much more slowly. The neurasthenic is anxious about himself and his physical health. He seeks sympathy at all times, and may go from physician to physician, looking for advice and medical counsel. Hence, when the symptoms of mental fatigue develop, the need of a specialist often is required to tell just what condition is present so that the most effective treatment may be utilized.

GOP Lines Up To Change Rent Control

WASHINGTON, March 17—Republicans lined up to ram through the house today a "local option" rent control bill.

Assailed by Democratic opponents as a control measure "in name only" the bill would take the power to raise rents or lift ceilings away from Washington and give it to local boards nominated by the governors.

Republicans contended that local people are better understood by problems in the various localities, and they can best handle tenant-landlord problems.

Foes of the bill claimed some boards are "stacked" with real estate operators.

Rep. Monroney (D-Okla.) called for a vote on a move to strike out the "local option" provision and retain some form of veto power in the hands of the federal rent administrator.

The house expects to pass the bill before nightfall.

It would extend modified rent controls to April 1, 1949.

Taft Says War Talk Unjustified

AUGUSTA, Me., March 17—Charging the administration with "operating in an atmosphere of war," Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R-Me.) said he had no justification for such war hysteria.

The Republican presidential candidate told a series of Maine meetings he had no information to indicate Russia was ready to move "militarily" beyond its sphere of influence which, he said, was fixed at Yalta.

He called upon President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall to tell congress and the American people if they had any information otherwise.

"We must restrain this growing fear of another war," Taft said. "If war comes it should only be by active military aggression of other powers."

Taft is making a two-day swing through Maine seeking support from the Pine Tree state's 13 delegates to the National GOP convention, Maine's delegates, who are chosen at a convention of state leaders, traditionally go unpledged.

Finns Tell Russia Arms Pact 'Doubtful'

HELSINKI, March 17—Finland has informed Soviet Russia there are some "doubts" about a military agreement between the two countries. The Finns expressed hope of staying out of international conflicts.

President Juho H. Paasikivi advised Prime Minister Stalin Finland expects the Russia-proposed treaty of cooperation to be freely considered in the negotiations which open in Moscow next Monday.

These statements were made in Paasikivi's reply to Stalin's invitation to negotiations. It was published today by the foreign office, a day after the Moscow press had printed excerpts from it. The letter was sent to Moscow last Tuesday.

(Moscow dispatches said Bulgaria and Russia are expected to sign a mutual friendship and assistance pact soon. The Bulgarian premier, George Dimitrov, left Sofia by plane today. Bulgaria signed a credit trade agreement with the Soviet Union last September.)

Letters Can Cheer German Children, Salem Pupils Told

How Salem school children, through letter-writing, can help to encourage the children of Germany, was explained by Mrs. Victor Zerbe of the Canfield rd. to pupils of the Columbia Street school in a talk Monday afternoon at the school.

Mrs. Zerbe, who with her husband recently spent a month at Murburg, Germany, will supply names of German children to whom the local students may write.

Miss Edith Forbes, principal of Columbia Street school, is cooperating in this project.

While in Germany Mrs. Zerbe visited an orphanage of 150 children, who were practically destitute of clothing.

At the suggestion of the Columbia Rotary club, the Zerbos secured the names of worthy families in Germany, France and England, who could be encouraged and their morale strengthened through letters, gifts of food, clothing, etc.

The Columbia Rotary club has taken 60 of the 150 names of families the Zerbos desire to help. Russell Lindsay is in charge of the club's project.

Organizations or individuals who are interested in taking a family may call Mrs. Zerbe.

Youths Eligible For Military Appointments

Rep. Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville says any youth who so desires will have an opportunity to compete for appointment to Annapolis or West Point.

These competitive examinations of the U. S. Civil Service commission will be held probably in July. Two appointments will be made to West Point and two to Annapolis.

The congressman attended two House Judiciary subcommittee meetings Monday. One meeting involved discussion of a bill which would Coast Guard officers power to try cases involving conduct of Merchant seamen. The other, attended by Army and Navy representatives, was held by the subcommittee on Patents, Trademarks, and Copyrights.

URGE CUT IN FUND FOR AGRICULTURE

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 17—A 42 per cent cut in the Agriculture department's $634,332,480 budget for next year was urged today by the house appropriations committee.

But besides approving $543,421,453 in new cash for the department, the committee recommended $65,000,000 for the school lunch program and $400,000,000 in loan authority for the Rural Electrification Administration.

The cash outlay includes $150,000,000 to pay farmers for soil conservation practices this year under the AAA program. The bill also promises a $225,000,000 appropriation for this purpose next year to cover the 1949 crop year.

The $543,421,453 total okayed by the committee is $80,105,198 below the amount the department was given for the present year.

While the cash approved is actually $91,911,027 less than President Truman's proposed budget for the department, $65,000,000 of the cut is a paper transaction.

The bill will come before the house for debate late this week.

Counties Plot Plan To Battle Tax Woes

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, March 17 — Ohio counties will plot specific steps next month in their battle against a tax problem which they say is threatening them with "bankruptcy."
A subcommittee representing 61 counties yesterday appointed three officials to draw up proposals to be submitted to the meeting in Columbus April 27.

The tax situation developed after the state Supreme court recently allowed the Roseville Pottery Co. in Muskingum county to transfer certain properties from a real to a personal property classification.
Real estate is taxed on 100 percent of value; personal property on 50 percent.

The counties say the decision has resulted in a flood of appeals from corporations seeking to change property to the lighter tax category. Millions of dollars in taxes will be lost if the appeals are granted, they say.

Committee members declared relief from the decision would be sought mainly through the state legislature.

First choice is to have an act passed that would define real estate so clearly that nothing of that nature could be taxed as personal property.

Second choice is a constitutional amendment that would raise the tax on personal property to 100 percent of value.

Appointed to draw up measures for study were Lorain county Prosecutor William G. Wickens and assistant Cuyahoga prosecutors Ralph W. Edwards and Saul S. Danaceau.

FIVE POWERS

additions to the alliance. It said the five countries "may, by agreement, invite any other state to agree to its terms."

Under the plan, any such country invited could become a party to the agreement by depositing its acceptance with the Belgian government.

The countries formally declared their "close community of interests" and expressed their belief in the "necessity of unity in order to promote the economic recovery of Europe."

The treaty promised to "organize and coordinate their economic activities to produce the best possible results by the elimination of conflict in their economic policies, the co-ordination of production and the development of commercial exchanges."

Obviously bearing in mind cooperation with the other 11 nations and Western Germany under the European Recovery program, the accord said the common aims "shall not involve any duplication or, or prejudice to, work of other economic organizations" of which they are members. On the contrary, the treaty said the alliance would assist such organizations.

This was in line with British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's announced goal of building a hard core for a future Western European union, while developing economic cooperation among the 16 Marshall plan nations.

The agreement on mutual military aid referred directly to resistance against "an armed attack on Europe."

CLAIMS

ject another phase of thought. He said council had completed its duties on June 2, 1947, when it had passed a resolution instructing the solicitor to start court proceedings to secure the properties needed.

"From that time on," Koenreich said, "the responsibility has been in the hands of our legal department." (Solicitor Reese announced early Tuesday that formal filing of the initial condemnation proceedings in common pleas court has been made. The cases will be heard during the new term of the court opening April 5.)

Letter To Gill

The solution to the request made by Gill, which asked for information as to how soon the safety department divisions could be housed elsewhere, was partially settled by council.

Koenreich asked for and had approved a motion instructing Vincent to write Gill with the full information on the progress of the new building and instructed the clerk to supply Mayor Johnson with a copy of the letter.

No direct answer was made to the mayor's request for action by council.

Mayor Johnson did not attend the council meeting.

WANT GERMANY UNDER ERP AID

Conference of 16 Nations Votes To Include Western Area

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, March 17—The European Recovery conference voted unanimously Tuesday to include Western Germany in the scope of the Marshall plan.

Portugal's foreign minister, Jose Caeiro Da Mata, proposed before the second and final general session of the conference this afternoon that Generalissimo Franco's Spain be included. He praised Spain as having made a great contribution to European culture and mentioned her "considerable agricultural resources."

"It is not easy to understand how it would be possible to keep a country like Spain for a long time outside our deliberations," Da Mata said. He approved the invitation to German representatives.

The committee's recommendation is almost certain to be accepted by the second and final conference session this afternoon. All 16 nations are represented among the experts.

The Marshall Plan union began taking shape today as delegates wound up preliminary speech-making phases of their conference.

Six of 14 foreign ministers attending the sessions spoke yesterday. The other eight probably will be heard today.

They are the ministers from Belgium, Austria, Eire, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Norway, Portugal and Sweden.

Out of the mass of data the 14 foreign ministers and two ambassadors seem to have outlined four concrete projects:

1. A plan for a treaty on mutual economic aid and the use to be made of Marshall plan funds.

2. The idea of an organization which, as British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin described it, "cannot and will not cease when the pressure of present needs diminishes."

3. A proposal that Germany be included in the reconstruction effort.

4. A set of reports showing what Europe wants of the Marshall plan based on American reports of what is available.

Delegates already have discounted the American statement that Italy would get no Marshall plan aid if it goes Communist in next month's election.

They assumed that a Communist-led Italy, like other Communist-led states, would keep out of the plan. Italian Communist leaders have said as much.

Most of the foreign ministers will leave for home tomorrow. The "work group" of officials will stay for weeks, however, to hammer out details of the projected accord.

Palestine Trouble Deepens, U. N. Hears

NEW YORK, March 17 — The United Nations Palestine commission today predicted strife, bloodshed and chaos in the Holy Land this spring.

The five-nation commission charged with carrying out partition of the Holy Land sounded this warning in its second monthly report to the Security Council, released here and at Lake Success.

The document was circulated to delegates as the big powers staked their hopes for peace in Palestine on Jewish and Arab acceptance of truce proposals. After 10 days of apparent fruitless consultations, the big nations yesterday appealed to both sides to lay down their arms pending new efforts to solve the Holy Land's troubles.

Conditions are steadily deteriorating in Palestine, the commission report said, leaving little hope for an orderly transfer of authority to the U. N. when the British give up rule May 15.

Spectators Watch As House Is Moved

The Sidewalk Superintendent's club received new members Monday as spectators lined N. Lincoln ave. to watch the Broomall Construction Co. move a house from the site of the new Salem News building, immediately north of the postoffice.

The onlookers were awed by the skill of the workmen as they transported the former Chast Reed property out onto Lincoln ave. thence east on State st. to Woodland ave. for re-location.
